

Word from Fayetteville is that the University of Arkansas is about to make an exhaustive study of the property tax situation in our state—a tough nut which the best efforts thus far have failed to crack.

Only a year ago your correspondent was commuting back and forth to Little Rock as a member of the voluntary Joint Tax Revision Committee headed by Charles Wilkins of Magnolia, and with the aid of experts from the university and other research organizations it was hoped this cross-section group might come up with something that could be written into law during Governor Francis Cherry's administration.

Arkansas' tax muddle is a bad one, but the political plight of anyone who tries to remedy it is even worse. For instance, the Joint Tax Revision Committee reworked Iowa's Local Budget Law and sent suggested program to Governor Cherry calling for two reforms in Arkansas:

1. Require all real property to be put on the tax books at 100 per cent of its market value, at the same time sealing down the millage rate to leave the net dollar tax yield unchanged—so that it would be up to the local voters to make any real change in taxation later on if they desired.

2. Make the county assessor's office appointive instead of elective. The assessor would be chosen by three public officials: (1) The county judge, (2) the president of the county board of education, and (3) a third member to be selected by the councils of the incorporated towns in the county.

Governor Cherry accepted the 100 per cent assessment idea and had it written into the proposed constitutional amendment which was approved by the legislature last spring and referred to the people in the general election in November 1954.

But the association of elective county assessors mistakenly blew up such a storm over the proposal to make their offices appointive that Governor Cherry felt compelled to eliminate this reform from the text of his amendment. The governor told me when I questioned him about it publicly at last spring's Arkansas Press association convention in Hot Springs that he had to drop the appointive assessor section out of his proposed amendment in order to get the latter through the legislature. Said Cherry: "It was a question of getting half a loaf or none."

That is to say, the 100 per cent assessment feature went through the legislature in the text of the proposed amendment but not the appointive assessor—and I submit to every informed citizen that there is grave doubt whether the one is worth anything without the other.

Certainly the University of Arkansas' tax experts feel as I do. The university's new tax study was announced in an article by Carl Childress in Wednesday's Arkansas Democrat, and here are two significant paragraphs of Mr. Childress' report on what the university researchers think:

"It is common knowledge that assessments of property on the old formula of 50 per cent of value, or the present formula of 20 per cent, have been theories only and never observed. Each county follows its own conscience in present rates of assessments, and estimates place the state average generally at 15 per cent and down.

"Effecting a uniform assessment rate among the 75 counties is made more difficult by the fact that the county assessor is an elective officer. To stay in office, he must of necessity follow the practices approved by the voters who elect him."

That sounds like one of your editor's many pieces on the local tax problem. But it isn't. It is the considered verdict of the university's researchers—today—and it is precisely the verdict that the cross-section of business and professional men known as the Joint Tax Revision Committee handed to Governor Cherry one year ago.

Nothing for sure is going to be done about Arkansas' property assessment scandal until the county assessor's office is taken out of elections, bulkheaded by long-term appointment, and given the best pay and largest staff of any office in the courthouse.

Arkansas' trouble is that she not only votes on the millage rate but she also, in effect, votes on what value shall be set upon property—and of course the second cancels out the first.

The millage rate is for the people to determine. But property values are factual, and if you expect your vote on millage to mean anything then you should delegate property assessments to an office shut away from the political wars as the courts are.

But the double standard of taxation—voting millage up and letting assessment values go down—won't work any more than it will work with money.

The single standard of just taxation is the millage rate, and that is the only thing the people should vote on.

All your institutions and your local control of them depend on your eventual acceptance of this hard fact.

Court Told It Has Power to End Segregation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department told the Supreme Court today that the court is fully empowered to strike down racial segregation in public schools.

In response to an invitation of the court, where five school segregation cases are pending, Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell and his chief aides filed a brief asserting that the 14th Amendment to the Constitution "compels a state to the grant the benefits of public education to all its people equally, with out regard to differences of race or color."

The brief said the question is not "whether there is equality as between schools," adding: "The constitution requires that there be equality as between persons."

The cases before the court are from Kansas, South Carolina, Virginia, Delaware and the District of Columbia. Fourteen other states require segregation of Negro and white pupils and three others permit it.

The pending cases were originally argued many months ago when the government filed a brief opposing segregation practices in the public schools. Subsequently, the court ordered reargument for Dec. 7 and meanwhile asked that all parties, and the attorney general, submit additional briefs designed to answer questions in the mind of the court relating to the legislative history of the 14th Amendment and its ratification by the states.

Dean Believes Peace Talks Will Succeed

By Victor Kendrick

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP) — American Envoy VIRHURGH DEAN said today he saw a "distinct possibility" his preliminary talks with the Communists would succeed in setting up a Korean peace conference.

Dean emerged from his 26th negotiating session with the Reds in the most optimistic mood since the talks began more than a month ago.

He asked the Communists to give a "world weary of war a tangible ray of hope" by trying earnestly to set a date for the long-delayed meeting and sent Russia by her side as a full participant.

Dean said the Reds suggested Dec. 26 as a tentative starting date but clung to demands on inviting the Soviet Union as a non-belligerent "neutral" in the Korean war.

The American ambassador had been expected to deliver a stern ultimatum to stop stalling but instead he read a mildly-worded summary of the conference picture as he saw it during the last five weeks.

Communist insistence on bringing Russia, India, Pakistan, Burma and Indonesia into the conference as neutral, non-voting observers has been the major stumbling block in the way of making the parity a reality.

Dean told the Communists he believed the United Nations general assembly which recently resolved to limit the conference to active participants in the war, would agree to invite India, Burma, Pakistan and Indonesia to sit in as observers.

But he again stressed that Russia, if invited, must sit with the representatives of North Korea and the Chinese People's "Volunteers" as full participants.

'Cease Fire' Is Bold Attempt by Hollywood to Give Home Front a 3-D War Picture

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Hollywood has finally made a bold attempt to give the home front public a three-dimensional picture of war—a actual war.

The result is "Cease Fire," the story of an infantry patrol on its last battle action just before the truce went into effect in Korea. Paramount pictures went to a lot of trouble to make it an honest authentic simple film that shows combat as it actually is.

It shot the movie in Korea battle areas and used real doughboys—members of a single platoon—instead of trained actors. The sounds and sights of war are realistic, and a great deal of the feeling is there. But war has a fourth

22-Month Old Girl Is Missing

MARIANNA (AP) — Twenty-two-month-old Barbara Sue Jones has been missing from her home in an isolated area near here since Wednesday, Lee County Sheriff C. S. Langston said today.

Langston said he was "checking all angles," but added he had no reason to believe there had been any foul play.

Fire Is Raging in Korean City of Pusan

PUSAN, Korea, Saturday (AP) — Flames 50 feet high roared out of control in this jammed seaport today, driving thousands of refugees through the crowded streets as it razed hundreds of clustered homes and shops.

"We just don't know how bed it came," said one American officer. "No one can say now."

There were no immediate reports of deaths although it was almost certain some residents must have died in the flames that shot red into the dark sky.

The fire endangered American installations and some U. S. units and members of neutral nations' truce inspection teams fled their quarters.

Winds up to 30 miles an hour whipped the fire to within 200 yards of Pusan's main railroad station shortly after midnight.

The fire burst out first about 8 o'clock last night in a shanty-town area called "the Hilltop."

Entire blocks flashed into flame. One Army officer said, "Like a meteor, that is lit with your thumb."

Another officer estimated in the early hours of the fire that as many as 1,000 to 2,000 houses and shops had burned.

Pusan, a key port city on the southeast corner of the peninsula, was the war-time capital of South Korea.

Diplomats to Decide on Questioning

By WARREN ROGERS JR.

WASHINGTON (AP) Sen. Jenner (R-Ind.) today left the issue of questioning Igor Gouzenko up to Canadian and U. S. diplomats and pressed forward on other fronts in his Communist-in-governments probe.

He issued a statement which said the internal security subcommittee which he heads has nine former government employees, including Alger Hiss, "now under special scrutiny."

"The subcommittee is trying to determine who was responsible for their continued employment, which on most cases, involved promotions in pay," the statement said.

It was thus apparent Jenner plans no further steps until there is a fresh exchange of views between Secretary of State Dulles and Canadian Foreign Minister Lester B. Pearson.

Jenner's subcommittee has asked and been rejected, then asked again for Canadian promises to question Gouzenko.

He said the committee would like to put the finger on a big Canadian spy ring at Ottawa in 1945, is now a Canadian citizen living in police-guarded obscurity.

There are many things right "Cease Fire!" It shows the terrible hardship of hill fighting. It shows the horror of war's immorality, deadly but fascinating beauty—such as napalm bombs bursting and lacing the land in patterns of flame and smoke.

Exposed 22-Year-Old Secret Threatens 'Love' Couple With Series of Legal Problems

ORANGE, TEX. (AP) — Bonlin and Betty McCuddy said today they would continue their life as if it had never been interrupted by splashing headlines that shattered their 22-year secret.

"The boys have had their inning—let them have it," the Nashville socialite who disappeared with his secretary in 1931 to be found in Orange 22 years later, said.

"I'm willing to talk about the weather, football, duck hunting or anything else—except our life," said the 22-year-old wife.

"The enduring love that brought six children, even one grandchild, and happiness to the two who had shed a past life so completely, rallied friends and neighbors to their side."

The home was filled with flowers. Is there anything I can do to help?" asked B. L. Burton, the father-in-law of one of their daughters, who dropped by.

The youngest child, Mary Helen, looked closely at a newspaper picture of Betty McCuddy as she was 22 years ago.

"I've never seen that picture of mother before," the child said, and everyone in the room just smiled. Tom and Betty, who both work in Beaumont, stayed home today.

Tom works at an appliance store and Betty is a court stenographer.

Back in 1931, insurance man Thomas C. Bunlin of Nashville, Tenn., called an alcoholic incapable of earning a living outside his wealthy family's business—disappeared. Six weeks later, after Bunlin's will had been mailed from St. Louis, the pretty Russellville, Ky., girl who had been his secretary vanished too.

The cost of the loveless pair: a wife, three sons, business prestige and a thriving business to him; her family and a share in a million dollar estate for unmarried Betty.

Only rumor and speculation ever connected the two disappearances.

Tom, 28, proved not to be the never-do-well a Tennessee Supreme Court branded him. He and his 22-year-old Betty stayed in Texas and somewhere along the years assumed the names of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Palmer.

Yesterday, their love—after 22 years of happiness and six children—was splashed across the nation's front pages. The Nashville Tennessean broke the story in a copy-righted dispatch.

Today, dazed by the quick developments, the tall, thin man and the motherly woman with gray in her hair waited to tell their love story to children rushing to their home here.

Neighbors dropped by to chat last night as Tom and Betty, four of their children with them, ate a belated Thanksgiving day dinner. Silent and miserable, almost bitter earlier in the day, they took on a more cheerful manner as their old friends rallied around.

Six Airmen Die in Crash of Flying Boxcar

PARIS (UP) — Six men were killed today when a U. S. Air Force C-10 (Flying Boxcar) plane crashed in flames while approaching Paris' Orly Airfield for a landing.

French officials said the plane appeared to explode in air moments after it had been given a clearance for its final approach to the field.

They said six bodies had been recovered from the wreckage.

Air Force sources said the plane was manned by a ferry crew from Dover Field, Delaware.

The bodies of five men were pulled from the charred wreckage. The body of a sixth crewman was found later in a clump of trees after he had tried unsuccessfully to bail out from about 700 feet.

His partially-opened parachute was tangled in branches 40 yards from the crash site.

Witnesses said the plane appeared to disintegrate in air, possibly from an explosion, when it was only two and one-half miles from the runway and safely. It apparently had been having engine trouble before the crash, witnesses reported.

Skeptical of Russian Atom Claims

By MAX HARRLESON

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Western Diplomats were skeptical today of a hint by Andrei V. Vishinsky that Russia may have types of atomic and other weapons that the West hasn't.

The chief Soviet delegate to the U. N. dropped his intimation yesterday in the General Assembly's 60-nation Political Committee just before that group rejected every proposal in his package plan for easing world tension.

Some delegates suggested privately that Vishinsky's remark was a ploy to distract attention from his defeat, which he could foresee. It was agreed his speech got more attention than the vote.

The Vishinsky peace package called for a ban on all atomic and hydrogen weapons, a one-third reduction in the armed forces of all foreign bases and the elimination of propaganda of a hostile nature.

Just what Vishinsky said about Russia's new weapons was still being disputed today. He spoke in Russian and U. N. translators turned out two versions.

The version relayed to the delegates as Vishinsky spoke said that the Western Powers "do not have everything in this field of atomic and other weapons that the Soviet Union already has."

Other Russian experts went back to a tape recording of the original speech in Russian and came up with a translation saying the other powers "possibly" do not possess all the weapons the Russians have.

There was no doubt, however, about Vishinsky's claim that Russia now has overtaken the West in atomic and hydrogen weapons.

"It is not correct to say that we are weaker in this field of endeavor," he declared.

Passengers Rescued From Ditched Plane

TOKYO (UP) — The Air Force disclosed today that 25 passengers and crew members, including 10 members of a U. S. O. G. troupe, were rescued from a ditched Air Force cargo plane in the Sea of Japan.

The C-46 commando transport hit the water last night while making a ground controlled approach landing in rainy weather. It went down three miles off shore from the Mihio Air Force installation.

None of the passengers was injured, although one crew member received a broken wrist and three other persons had minor injuries.

The names of the passengers, including the entertainers, were not disclosed immediately.

The air force said the pilot flared as soon as the plane hit the water. A crash boat stationed at Mihio located the plane from the flares.

Passengers and crewmen donned "Mae West" life jackets and climbed into life rafts before the plane sank.

Veteran AP Telegrapher Dies

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — William Shirley Woodruff, veteran Associated Press Morse telegrapher, died here today after an illness of several months.

Woodruff 60, when had been assigned to St. Petersburg as an operator when all news as transmitted in Morse, had lived here 30 years. After installation of high-speed telegraph machines he remained as operator and maintainer of Associated Press equipment.

Woodruff went to the Associated Press 35 years ago. He first was assigned to the Greenville, S. C. News. Since then he had served the AP in many cities of the South, including Pine Bluff, Ark.

His only survivor is his widow.

French Premier Gets Approval, to Attend Meet

PARIS (AP) — Premier Joseph Laniel today took his European unity policy before a make-or-break Parliament session thrown into even more confusion than usually Russia's sudden offer to attend a Big Four meeting.

Some observers figured the Russian agreement to a foreign ministers conference in Berlin would bring the government crashing down and out in the vote of confidence late tonight or early tomorrow. Others thought it might strengthen Laniel.

The Premier had demanded the National Assembly endorsement for a weekly-wooded approval of European unification to take with him to the Bermuda conference with President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Churchill Dec. 4. Serious splits in his own coalition Cabinet prevented his asking for any outright endorsement of the controversial European army plan to rearm Germany.

Defeat on the confidence resolution would force the Cabinet to resign. France then might have to be represented at Bermuda by the representative of a caretaker government with little or no power to make decisions. The government at any rate has only a month more of life, since it must resign after the presidential election Dec. 17.

Before the details of the Soviet note were made public, many observers here and abroad at once concluded the Russian offer was designed to sabotage the Bermuda meeting by bringing down the Cabinet.

One school of thought was that deputies opposing the European army would seize on the Soviet offer to talk as an excuse for withholding endorsement of anything connected with the army project.

But another group thought the Assembly would not precipitate another crisis that might impede France in any negotiations with the Kremlin.

Has to Give Up Son on Thanksgiving

NEW GLARUS, Wis. (AP) — Thanks giving Day meant little to Mrs. Dorothy Tschudy.

While happier families gathered with traditional festivity, the 26-year-old widow fought her loneliness with "faith that somehow I'm going to get Jeffrey back."

Mrs. Tschudy gave up 2-year-old Jeffrey by court order last week, but, with friends and neighbors behind her, is seeking an exception to the State Department of Public Welfare policy that a child placed in a home for adoption needs both a father and mother. Her husband died last April before adoption could be carried through on Jeffrey, who had lived with them since March 1952 at Albany, Wis.

Released Wednesday from the Monroe Hospital, where she received treatment for shock and fatigue, Mrs. Tschudy spent the holiday here yesterday at the home of her stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John Argue. Other members of the family were not invited.

No children were present to remind Mrs. Tschudy of Jeffrey. The holiday dinner was eaten almost in silence.

Mrs. Tschudy had written Wednesday to George Keith, acting director of the Department of Welfare, asking that Jeffrey be allowed to spend Thanksgiving with her.

Keith replied, "I'm sorry, I can't do it. I lack authority to grant the request."

U. S. Cold to Russian Call for Big 4 Meet

WASHINGTON (UP) — The State Department said today the new Soviet note proposing a Big Four foreign ministers meeting is "disappointing."

The department issued a formal statement describing the note as an effort to cover up the "disastrous consequences" to Russia from the world-wide reaction to its overture of Allied offers for talks on Germany and Austria.

Winds Build Up Forest Fire Hazard

LITTLE ROCK (UP) — Arkansas' forest fire situation was building up to a "high hazard" point today, aggravated by winds removing moisture from the forests.

Assistant State Forester F. H. (Ranger Jim) Martin reported a total of 60 fires in the state yesterday to bring the month's total so far to 746 on some 7,500 acres.

Martin said 26 of the fires were put out but 34 were still going last night, mostly in south Arkansas.

"Every man in the South Arkansas fire-fighting units was in the field yesterday," Martin said.

Martin said the situation, caused temporarily by recent rains, may become "highly dangerous" as a result of strong winds which are drying out the forest.

Sergeant Admits Slaying Little Girl in Tokyo

TOKYO, Saturday (UP) — An American army sergeant has confessed to the strangulation murder of a little girl yesterday.

An army spokesman identified the confessed slayer as M-Sgt. Maurice L. Shick, 29. He said the soldier confessed last night that he had slain the girl, daughter of American Army Col. Jacquard, 10th child.

The army did not say what motivated Shick to the crime. The spokesman said only that the sergeant "countered to make a confession" after "intensive questioning."

"Finalization of the investigation is expected within the next few days," the spokesman said.

The army said Shick is married and lives with his wife and their two adopted Japanese children in the same housing area where the girl was murdered.

Limit of Five Explainers Blow to U. S.

By JAMES MORRISSEY

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP) — The Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission damaged the Allies' chances of winning reluctant prisoners back to democracy by telling the United Nations today that five "explainers" must do the job.

U. N. repatriation officials had sought 15 interviewers for the task of reasoning with 351 prisoners, including 22 Americans and one Briton, who refused to go home last summer.

The commission ruled, however, that the U. N. was entitled to only five explainer under the Korean truce and a ratio in accordance with the number of prisoners.

As a result of the commission's decision, Allied interviewers will have to talk fast, as each prisoner will have only four minutes in which to hear an explanation and make up his mind.

Wanda Andres Becomes Bride Of Delmar Collins

In a candlelight ceremony performed Thursday, November 26, at 5 p. m. at the First Baptist Church, Miss Wanda Andres daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Andres of Sutton, became the bride of Delmar Collins, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Collins of Okay. Reverend S. A. Whitlow officiated at the ceremony.

The church was decorated with fad baskets of white stock and fad greenery. White tapers burned in wrought iron candelabra. The tapers were lighted by Misses Jo Nell Wells and Callie Caston. Miss Wells wore a blue taffeta dress and a wristlet of pink carnations. Miss Caston was dressed in a rose tulle and a wristlet of blue carnations.

Miss Twyla Bennett, soloist, sang "I Love You Truly" and "Be Cause". She wore a dress of navy blue with light blue accessories and a white carnation corsage. Luther Holloman, organist, accompanied Miss Bennett, and played the traditional wedding marches.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowning in a street length dress of white tulle, broad edged satin designed with a tight fitted bodice, bouffant skirt and sweetheart neckline. The long sleeves ended in lily points over the hands. Her shoulder length veil of illusion fell from a white satin hat. She carried a white purple-throated orchid on a white ribbon streamer.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Homer White of Baton Rouge, Louisiana sister of the bride. She was dressed in a two piece dress of ecru rose satin with white accessories and black shoes. She carried a colonial bouquet of blue carnations.

Charles Collins, brother of the groom, served as best man.

The mother of the groom wore a dressmakers suit of gray with black accessories. She pinned a corsage of white gardenias at her shoulder.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Smith 1102 South Main.

Miss Annie Sue Andres presided at the guest book. She wore a corsage of pink gardenias. The guests were then invited into the dining room, where Miss Greta Caston served the cake, and Mrs. Bill Galloway sister of the bride, served the punch. Others extending courtesies were Mrs. Smith, who is a sister of the bride, and Mrs. George Garrett. All wore corsages of pink carnations.

After the reception, the couple left for a short wedding trip. For travel the bride wore a brown and white suit with brown accessories and planned an orchid at her shoulder.

Sunday School Lesson

By William E. Giffroy, D. D.

I suppose we have all at some time sung that familiar and pleasant hymn:

"I think when I read that sweet story of old, when Jesus was here among men, how He called little children as lambs to His fold, I should like to have been with Him then."

I wish that His hands had been placed on my head, and His arm had been thrown around me, and that I might have seen His kind look when He said: "Let the little ones come into Me." It is a very natural wish as one reads the "greatest story," yet I think the hymn strikes a note of more practical realism when it says: "Yet still to His footstool in prayer I may go and ask for a share in His love."

After all there is no assurance that had we been among the throng that surrounded the Master in His earthly life He would have been the Master to us.

The common people heard Him gladly, Jesus complained that they followed Him for the loaves and fishes, rather than for His teaching and the spiritual power of His miracles. Apparently only comparatively few of the many who heard Him responded to His teaching, accepting Him as the Messiah as Lord and Master.

Would we have been among the few, or among the many? Jesus did not make discipleship easy. He called it a matter of bearing the cross and coming after Him though it might be a little more difficult later that the full significance of these words was revealed to the disciples.

It was not then, nor is it today, an easy thing to be Christian — that is a true Christian.

The late Sylvester Horne whose pulpit in the famous old Whitefield's Tabernacle in London 1 once occupied entitled a little book of his sermons "The Life to that little book, but its title may be misleading.

Horne thought of the Christian life as easy, only after the great decisions had been made and the life wholly committed to Christ.

The sentiment of the poignant hymn, with which I began, can very easily have its test in our lives. What is our attitude toward stead of being called "Cease Fire," the picture might, depending on events, more aptly be titled, "To Be Continued."

Eight of the 11-GI cast were flown here for the premiere. A ninth man, Pfc. Ricardo Carrasco of El Paso, Tex., couldn't make it.

Pfc. Carrasco, the only member of the patrol "killed" in the movie, volunteered four days after completing his film role to go on a real mission. A mortar bomb took his life.

His buddies at the premiere said they missed him — and would not forget him.

a group of outnumbered infantrymen.

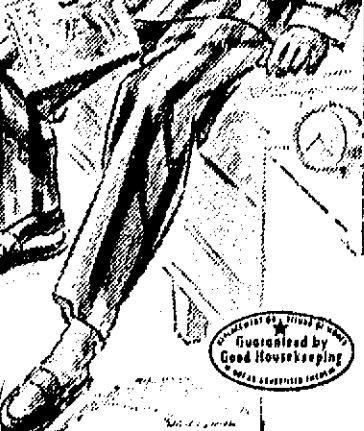

You also get a worm's-eye view of a soldier tensely probing with a bayonet for a buried foot mine in his path. A mistake of an inch — just a touch against the three tiny prongs sticking out — and death will explode among the group.

All these scenes are portrayed expertly by fighting men using the tools of their job. It is only when the real soldiers have to talk like real soldiers that they begin to sound like Hollywood actors. For some reason soldiers don't talk like themselves when they know a microphone is taking it down. The dialogue becomes stilted and sounds unnatural.

But "Cease Fire!" is certainly the year's noblest experiment in war pictures. It captures some of the heart-breaking loveliness and mind-cracking sorrow of Korea for those who never fought there, and will recall it for those who did fight there and left part of their youth behind them forever.

At its premiere here this week retired Gen. Mark Clark, former Far East commander, and other top brass praised the film for its realistic portrayal of the sacrifices of the U. S. fighting men in Korea. Radio and TV commentator Tex McCrary observed that in the Christ today? How earnestly and effectually do we respond to His call?

As a matter of fact, we can "be" with Him in the pages of the New Testament even more really than those of His own earthly time were with Him, except perhaps the nearest of His disciples, those who became the Apostles.

We have the whole range of His life and teaching there set forth; we may see Him in all the fullness of His life and redemptive incidents or partial views.

We have the added help and incentive of the revelation of those who knew Him, and of St. Paul, in many respects the greatest interpreter of Christ and His gospel.

So, the richest reality of Christian faith and experience is not found

There will be an old fashion Box entertainment at the home of Mrs. Vera Jones, Saturday night Nov. 28, sponsored by the Community Club No. 1. The public is invited.

Myles Wilson of Detroit, Michigan spent the night with Roscoe Smith.

In spite of the inclement weather, Sunday was a good day at the St. Luke Baptist Church, Sheppard. A financial drive was on to remodel the church and all responded cheerfully and some not present sent their quota. A wiener roast and pie supper will be given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Johnson, the first Saturday night in December. The proceeds will go to help the needy for Christmas. We are glad to note that T. J. Martin is recovering from a short illness. The Rev. Anderson of Texarkana was a visitor at St. Luke.

The Melody Five of Magnolia will give a musical program at Rising Star Baptist Church Sunday night, November 29, sponsored by the Missionary society. The public is invited.

Ralph Johnson of Lincoln, Neb., is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs.

W. B. Johnson, and other relatives.

Felix Evans has returned to his home in Phoenix, Ariz., after spending a few days visiting friends.

Miss Adele White and her nephew, Jerrell Wayne Lawson left Tuesday night where they will spend the holiday visiting Miss White's sister, Mrs. Florine Lawson in Hughes, Arkansas and Memphis, Tennessee.

Nelson and Hill Post No. 427 will sponsor a dance Thursday night, November 26, at 9 p. m. at the Legion Hut, featuring Joe Turner. Tickets will be on sale at usual places.

Pvt. Donald Foster of Fort Lewis, Wash., is visiting his wife, Mrs. Bernice Foster and children.

About one fifth of the area of the world is permanently frozen.
